

We aim to offer an ambitious opening to other cultures through having a love of learning a new language.

Being able to communicate with people across the world and developing a curiosity for a love of learning further languages is what we aspire to achieve. If we can communicate with other cultures using a foreign language then our understanding and compassion for different communities will deepen.

In order for us to become resilient, responsible and global citizens, we aim to provide the foundation for learning further languages which may provide the opportunities for pupils to study and work in other countries in the future.

Pupils will be able to communicate for practical purposes both in speech and writing so they can serve people from other cultures and enable all individuals to live life in all its fullness.
