

PSHE education actively promotes the moral, mental and physical development of pupils. We will pay particular attention to providing opportunities to promote tolerance and respect of other cultures.

Through PSHE teaching children will learn to value and love themselves for who they are and their unique talents in all areas of life. They will also become compassionate global citizens.

The PSHE curriculum will allow all children to access and achieve the learning it sets out. Paving the way for happy, successful, productive individuals who are equipped to face the opportunities, challenges and responsibilities they will face growing up.

The RSE part of the PSHE curriculum will enable children to make safe and informed decisions about the relationships they encounter within their lives. Allowing them to understand what different relationships mean to them. Giving an expectation of how they and others should behave.
